

NEW RESEARCH

LEGAL AID & LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES: THE CRIMINAL CASES REVIEW COMMISSION

Having been granted unique access to CCRC data, researchers at the University of Sussex are undertaking important new research on the impact of legal aid cuts on applications to the CCRC.

As part of the research, we are talking to legal professionals who have experience of publically-funded criminal work to understand how legal aid changes have affected their ability to work on CCRC applications.

The CCRC will be reporting relevant findings to the appropriate public bodies and agencies as part of its remit to improve the criminal justice system.

If you are a member of the legal profession with experience of doing publicly-funded criminal defence work in England or Wales we want to talk to you.

Interviews lasting no longer than an hour will take place across England and Wales in early 2020.

If you can volunteer your time, we will come to you. We can even arrange a Skype or phone interview.

For more information or to volunteer to take part, please contact:
amy.clarke@sussex.ac.uk

